Wednesday, March 3. 1708.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated March 9.

Cadix, February 12.

Letters from Tenariff of the 23d of January give an Account, that divers French Ships of War had touch'd lately at the Canaries, and proceeded from thence for the West Indies. All the Troops in Andaloufia are marching towards Badajoz.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 9.

Amsterdam, March 9. Letters from France by the Way of Switzerland, give an Account, that the French Troops in several Places on the Frontiers had committed Disorders for want of Pay, that their Officers could not keep them under, and that the Town-Major of St. Omer opposing their Violences was kill'd. The Farmers of the Gabels having made Complaints, that the Soldiers vend'd Salt that had not paid the Duty, it was found necessary to post Guards in several Places to put a stop to that Practice: Part of a Regiment that made a Trade of it, coming to Blows with some of those Guards on the Frontiers of Picardy, about 30 Men were kill'd on both Sides. Some Horse that were quarter'd in Meaux, had the Presumption to stop a Collector who was carrying Money up to Paris, and having taken so much as they computed their Arrears came to, offer'd to guard the Collector with the rest to the next Town where he was to change Carriage. This Licentiousness, from whence proceeds Desertion, has occasion'd the shutting the Gates betimes of the Towns that have Garrisons in them, and posting Corps de Garde in the Avenues. 'Tis further advis'd, that several Officers had openly declar'd, that unless they were paid their Arrears they would quit the Service. They write likewise from the Netherlands, that the Soldiers of the Garrison of Aire in Artois, have lately pillag'd some Houses there for want of their Pay: And that thereupon many of the Officers have written to the Duke of Vendome, to desire him to get some Money sent to the Troops, as the only Means to remedy these Disorders.

Paris, March 5. An Express has brought an Account, that the Duke of Orleans arriv'd at Bayone the 29th past, so that we may soon hear of his Arrival at Madrid. The King of Spain designs to send 8 Battallions under Count Mahoni to Sicily, and 'tis said Count Albergotti will be sent to command all the Forces on that Island. Considerable Sums of Money are sent to Flanders, for paying the Troops. Letters from Court, say the King is about to treat with the Merchants of St. Malo, Marseilles, and Genoa for a Loan of 40 Millions. M. de Maréchal the new Comptroller-general of the Finances, takes great Pains to ingratiate himself with the King. He represented to his Majesty, that to raise the Credit of the Mint-bills, it was absolutely necessary to suffer them to pass according to their Tenour, and not to compell the People to take in those Bills a fourth Part of the Sums stipulated to be payable in Specie on Bills of Exchange, promissory Notes, or Bonds: The King approving his Advice, has publish'd an Arret accordingly, by which all Persons are left at Liberty to take or refuse Mint-bills in part of Bills of Exchange and Notes that are expressly made payable in Gold or Silver in Specie. There is Reason to hope, that by this Means Money will come to circulate more freely in Trade than it has done of late. M. Andrefelle will speedily be sent with a good Sum of Money to Milan, to discharge the Debts contracted by our Troops while they were there and in the Mantuan.

Hague, March 9. The famous Banker M. Huguetan having perswaded the eldest Daughter of the deceas'd M. Odyck to consent to Marry him, on his engaging to settle upon her a Joyniure of 400000 Florins, the Banns of Matrimony were publish'd on Sunday last the first Time of three, according to the Usage of our reform'd Churches. The Vice-Marshal Monsieur d'Auverquerque being mov'd with Indignation at the Choice his Niece had made of a Husband, sent Order to an Attorney to give in a Petition to the Court of Justice, desiring that a Stop might be put to the further Publication of the Banns. The Reasons alledg'd in his Letter to the Attorney, and which are recited in the Petition, are the preventing the Scandal and Reproach his Niece would bring upon the House of Nassau by matching with an infamous and criminal Bankrupt. The Court of Justice have thereupon issued a penal Mandate for stopping further Proceedings. Within 15 Days M. d'Auverquerque must produce in Form his Causes of Impediment or Reasons for hindring the Marriage: And tho' he be but the Uncle; yet if the Lady's two Brothers do not oppose him, the Marriage will be prohibited if those Reasons shall be adjudg'd valid: But if they are found insufficient, the further publishing the Banns and in Consequence the Marriage will be allow'd. The Loan to the States of the Circle of Swabia is fill'd; but the Money will not be deliver'd, till the Instrument of Security stipulated to be given by that Circle be transmitted hither; and to Sign that Instrument, the Deputies of the States of the said Circle are speedily to meet in a general Assembly, or at least to the Number of 10 Deputies, which is term'd in that Country artior Conventus. The civil Broils and Commotions that had for some Time disturb'd the Tranquility of the Province of Gelderland, are at last intirely suppress'd: The States of that Province insist, (among their other Demands of Satisfaction from the City of Nimeghen, and which were comply'd with,) that a certain Placard publish'd in the most virulent and outrageous Terms in the Name of that City, against the said States, should be revok'd by a formal Act of Retraction that should be publish'd by the proper Officer of the City Ringing a Bell according to Custom. The Magistrates of Nimeghen who had rashly and headily issued the foresaid Placard and run into other Excesses against the States, without consulting the Burghers, assembled the Common Council and ask'd their Advice: The Commonalty declar'd, that having had no Part in the illegal Proceedings of the Magistrates, they might e'en get out of the Briars as well as they could. Upon this, the Magistrates took an Opportunity to publish the said Act of Retraction, at the Time when the Drums of a Regiment that is Garrison'd in Nimeghen were beating a Call for the Soldiers to mount the Guard, to the End the Noise of the Drums might hinder the People ple from hearing in what Manner their Magistrates whin'd out their Recantation. But the States being inform'd of it, enjoin'd the said Magistrates to say their Lesson over again, at an Hour when the Drums were not beating: To which they submitted; and so an End is happily put to those Dissensions. M. Coraenne was eldest Son of the late M. Odyck, Deputy of the Towns of the Province of Zealand and also of the Nobility of that Province to the Council of State of the States-General, died the 5th Instant.
